The market then developed moderate firmness, July rallying to $3\(\frac{1}{2}\)c and May to $1.13\(\frac{1}{2}\). Much of the strength was due to the situation in the Northwest.

Receipts to-day at Minneapolis and Duluth were comparatively small and there were intimations of a still further reduction in arrivals. For a time the market held rather firm on a small volume of business. Late in the day, however, a sharp decline in Southwestern markets started an attempt at general selling by commission houses here. Buyers were few, owing apparently to the brilliant one time, and may possibly own some of few, owing apparently to the brillian

The result was a quick break in prices. May sold off to $1.10\frac{1}{2}$ and July to $10\frac{1}{2}$. The market closed practically at the lowest point of the day, final quotations on May being at $1.10\frac{1}{2}$. July closed at $1\frac{1}{2}\frac{1}{2}$

Despite the weakness of wheat and the bearish tenor of the Government crop report, the corn market held remarkably port, the corn market held remarkably firm. Trading was active throughout the entire day, the volume of business being larger than for some time past. A feature that was largely responsible for the strength of the situation was the reported purchase of a line of 2,50,000 bu, of corn by a leading bull operator.

Firm cables and large clearances were factors contributing to the firmness. May opened unchanged to be higher at 8c to 184,c, sold up to 85 c and closed at 8c, Local receipts were 74 cars, with 6 of contract grade.

SUMMARY OF ST. LOUIS MARKETS

Wheat opened with some show of strength on a bullish construction of the Govment report, which showed that 111.000,000 beshels of wheat were held in farmers' hands. This amount was not so large as had been expected. In the first half hour there was rather brisk buying, but toward the close of the session the market again took the down turn and there was little support at the close. As had been the case, all through the week there was not enough buying support to keep prices on the advance, and however bullish the statistics on the old crop might have been they were offset by the fact that receipts and local supplies were in excess of the demand, and that most of the big longs had got out of the market. It soon became apparent that the professionals who bought at the opening were only scalping, and when they began to let go the last prop was knocked from under the active futures. In the last hour nothing but bearish news had any effect and selling became so general that the bulls were completely routed.

Though the Government report was bearish, corn showed some early strength in line with the Chicago market, but toward the close values eased off in line with those of wheat, and final quotations were slightly lower than on Friday. May wheat opened &c up and closed 24c off.

May corn opened 15014c up and closed 15014c off.
